HALE BROS. & CO.

Our Shoe Department!

For the year 1885, as in all previous years since our opening in Sacramento, our sales show an increase. Our business is conducted strictly upon merit. Our constant aim and study is, where can we get and how can we secure the very best values possible for our ever increasing trade? That we have five experienced Buyers watching the Leading Markets of the World, always on the alert and ever ready to take advantage of any and all depressions of the various markets, is evidence in itself that we mean to let no chances slip by which we can increase the quality of our goods and at the same time lower the price, thus giving the consumer the benefit of our experience and close cash buying. That we buy strictly for cash at all times is an argument in our favor. That we discount all bills means no small percentage for the consumer. That we have the largest assortment of Shoes in Sacramento can easily be demonstrated by paying us a visit, and making comparisons. That our prices are the lowest, we need use no further argument than the constant increase of our sales. An increase of trade naturally means an increase of stock. We have taken this fact into consideration, and are daily receiving from many of the leading Manufacturers New and Attractive Styles. We have also placed large orders for goods to arrive, suitable for Spring and Summer Wear. In both Men's and Ladies' Shoes our stock of goods to-day is larger, the quality better, and prices lower than ever before. It is our intention that the Year of 1886 shall prove more successful than any preceding. We shall make every honest endeavor to do our part and trust the result to an ever generous public, and right here let us tender you our thanks for past favors.

Yours truly,

ADVICE FROM ABROAD.

The San Francisco Call says if the Sacramento Citrus Fair managers proceed in the proper manner the exposition will be a powerful lever to help the immigration movement. Very true. But the Call does not suggest what it conceives to be a "proper manner." We may assume, however, that it means if the facts of the fair are properly published abroad, and duly authenticated, they will aid in opening up to Eastern people revelations concerning the capacity of northern California. This will unquestionably be done. More than that, it is altogether probable that sections of the exhibits will be shown at other points—possibly in the East country. It certainly will be a remarkable revelation to our Eastern friends to see displayed in the midst of their snow and ice, in the very heart of winter, loaded tables of luscious oranges and semi-tropical fruits, the orange in all variety, the lemon, lime, pomegranate, olive, etc., fruits that have been plucked from our bending trees at the holiday season, and for a month prior thereto, and will be for a month thereafter. The truth is, as we have so often repeated, that there is woeful ignorance at the East and in Europe concerning the capabilities of northern and central California. As an Eastern visitor yesterday explained: "In Illinois we have, until recently, heard only of southern California. We have had no idea whatever that such products as these before we were produced anywhere else than in the Los Angeles belt." It should be known that there is no one to claim for this state of lack of knowledge but ourselves. We have been sadly neglectful of the bounties of nature. While delving in the mines, and turning the soil for grain culture, we have neglected to make known the other advantages of our climate and soil. Indeed, we have not known them ourselves. A few adventurous spirits began the culture of citrus fruits, and not so very long ago were laughed at for their pains. Their foresight is now justified, and no cultivators have more upon which to pride themselves.

RESTING.

Holahan, than whom there were few more observant and thoughtful men in modern literature, once said: "The great trouble with us is that we do not play enough." This is as true to-day, as it was fifteen years ago when he uttered the quoted words. The business man of to-day does not play enough. He runs too much in a groove. He expects too much from himself. The human machine fails to respond some day suddenly, and a learned opinion is given as to the physical causes of the man's early death. Relaxation is the tonic and lubricant of an active life, and the business men who fail to take it, surely lose time. When a man exclaims, "I can't afford to take the time from business for this or that occasional relaxing of the rigor of daily exertion," we wonder if he ever reflects that sickness and "breaking down" are very likely to take time for him. We heard a business man not long ago advise a younger one to "keep at work; stick to it through all seasons—never miss a stroke or a moment," if he would succeed. But it was bad advice. He "sticks" best to his business, who is best able to stand up to its physical demands, and this bodily power is secured only by rest, absolute rest. Not mere tired sleep, but the putting off of business with the coat, and the taking on of change that rests, with the dressing gown. The man who carries his business to his sitting-room or his bed, is simply digging his grave.

"There is nothing better established," said a medical man of prominence recently, "than that the stirring American business man cuts short his life by fifteen or twenty years." And we have it on the testimony of statisticians that the vital statistics of the country prove this to be true.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

The Eastern press generally is now discussing the cost of city government. It ought to develop economy of method and finances in municipal affairs. At present, the municipal debts of the cities and incorporated towns of the United States exceed all the State debts, and are simply appalling. It is safe to say that there is not a city in the Union which is not guilty of some extravagance. Nor are there more than a half dozen cities in the Union where the full proper measure of economy is practiced, nor where taxation is not unduly high. It would seem that when men organize cities, they abandon business principles, and turn the administrations over to political parties—least, very largely so. A political syndicate of any party never yet conducted municipal affairs economically. Most of the debts that hang upon the cities of the United States to-day are directly traceable to political rascality, neglect or incompetency.

The things to be done, and that will done some day, is to divorce municipal administration from politics—least, a much earlier approach of that era of good will.
